PROPOSED JUBILEE CONCERT.

Meeting of Gentlemen Interested. In accordance with the suggestion in The Re runticas, that a musical jubilee be held in this city during the Contennial auniversary, a number of gentlemen met at this office yesterday af-terrion at 4:20 o'clock. The subject was consid-ered at some length, and it was finally agreed that the most appropriate place would be the rotunda of the Capitos, the singers to occupy the gallery and the hall itself to be devoted to the audience. Striking musical effects have been pro-duced in the rotunda of St. Peter's, the singers being located in the gallery of the some. It was proposed to lovike distinguished foreign talent to add to the interest of the occasion. The time selected was the 20th of June, 1878, to be con-tinued as long as the interest justified. Narrow Escape from Death. A few days ago a well-known Avenue mer-chant employed at his house to nurse the children a young colored woman of this city. On night of her duty at the house she re tired to her room, a small one on the second floor and was told not to put the gas out when she went to bed. That she did not disobey the partwent to bed. That she did not disobey the parting injunction of the mistress was easily verified the next mornier. According to her custom the lady of the house arose early, and finding that the girl was not up rapped at her door. There was no response, and she rapped louder, when she heard some one get from the bed, waik toward the door, and then fail. Thoroughly rightened, the other inmates of the house were arcused and the door forced in, when the girl was found lying in an insentible condition on the foor. The cause of this was immediately made apparent by the stifling odor of gas which pervaded the room. Medical assistance was at once rendered, and the girl recovered. Intermission of twenty minutes, during which those desiring refreshments repaired to the lecture-room and were supplied.

After the expiration of this time the company returned to the hall, when the programme was concluded, as follows: Trio by the Missus family; duet by Messrs, Simons and Lillebridge, solo by Miss Bray; solo on the flute by Mr. Patton; solo by Miss McMurray; duet by Mr. and Miss Bray; plano solo by Miss Florence Sohlecker. On the conclusion of this part of the programme, which was rendered in the most pleasing style, many of the singers being called out several times by the appreciative addience, the country school or the spelling bee followed.

After the performance had been in progress several moments, many of the audience left, decidedly disgusted. The different parts were well rendered, and there can be no doubt of the ability of Mr. E. Hay to make fun for an audience. The prominent characters were Mr. Hay as schoolmaster, Dr. Leech, W. A. Dennison, D. A. Pralle, B. Bergman and James Bangs, and in addition there were a dozen or more boys and girls, each of whom was attired in some costume. It is hardly necessary to describe the performance, as it was seen at the exhibitions given by Carnerous and Direct's ministral or at the Theatre Comique and Avenue theatre. On the conclusion of the exercises of the school the performance closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

THE ROMAN CARDINALS.

ness, and is either public or private. A public consistory, at which His Holiness presides in positifical attire, is that to which prelates, princes and the ambassadors of crowned heads are admitted. It is held in the large hall of the Vatican, and is convened principally for the purpose of giving the bat to newly-created cardinals, for the reception of foreign ministers, and legates a latere on returning from their embassy, and also to discuss matters relating to the canonisation of saints. The private consistory is held in a more retired apartment of the sacred balace, where only the cardinals assemble with His Holiness, to deliberate upon civil and ecclesiastical affairs. In this meeting the Pope appoints his legates a latere and other others of government, confirms the nomination of bishops, grants the pallium, &c. But one of the principal objects of this meeting is this meeting is

WHE CREATION OF CARDINALS, which takes place in the following manner: The Pontiff makes known to the Sacred College the names of those whom he wishes to promote, and advises with them on the subject. If they assent, a decree is drawn up to that effect and immediately published. Sometimes only the number of those to be promoted is declared, their names being concealed for special reasons, which is called receiving them in petits. Immediately after the promulgation of the decree the new diguitaries, if they are at Rome, vest themselves in the purple costume of a cardinal and are conducted to the Pope, from whom they receive, on their knees, the red cap. In placing it on the head of each one, he says to him in Latin, "Be a cardinal," and makes over him the sign of the cross. If the clorayman raised to the cardinalate does not reside in the city of Rome, a measunger is dispatched to apprise him of his appointment, after which he is permitted to wear the purple robes of a cardi val. One of the officers of the Apostolic Chamher is selected as the bearer of the red cap, which the new cardinal receives, after the celebration of divine service, from one of the highest digni laries of Church or State, but on condition that he will visit the Holy See before the expiration of a year. The Apostolic Chamber just mentioned is one of the tribunals of the Pontifical Government, and takes cognizance of all matters appertaining to the Papal revenue.

The ceremony of giving the red hat to a cardipal takes place in THE CREATION OF CARDINALS,

On the morning of the appointed day the new cardinal, if he resides in Rome, repairs to the Vatican; if he comes from a distance, he is escorted thither trom the monastery ad perface pepuli by a solemn cavaloade of members of the Sacred College. On their arrival at the Vatican they proceed to the vestry-room, whence they go in procession, two by two—the Pope in the rear, with the cross borne before him—to the place of assembly. There, after having taken their seats—his Holiness on an elevated throne, the cardinal bishops and cardinal priests on his right, the cardinal deacons on the left, and the other officers of government, with the nobility and foreign ambassaders, in their respective places according to rank—the new cardinal is introduced into the consistory by two cardinal deacons, making a genufication at the door, midway between it and the throne, and lastly near the Pope, whose foot he kisses, and afterwards his hand and lips. He then gives A PUBLIC CONSISTORY. .

to all the cardinals, commencing with the eldest. After this ceremony the Te Dewa is entoned, and all repeir to the Sistine chapel, where they stand around the altar, the new Cardinal lying prostrate before it, until the conclusion of the hymn. He then rises, and is sworn to observe the constitutions relative to his station, afterwhich the procession returns to the consistory. The Fontifithen places on his head the red hat, saying, "For the giory of Almighty God and of the Holy A positic See, receive this red hat, which is the peculiar badge of the cardinal dignity, and signifies that you should remain firm unto death, and be prepared seven to shed your blood, in the defense of our holy faith, for the preservation of peace among Christians, and the prosperity of the Holy Roman Church, in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." After this, the Pope retires to the vestry-room, and the cardinals to the Aula Regia, where they receive individually the salutations of the new cardinals, and congratulate him on his premotion. salutations of the new cardinals, and congratuate him on his promotion.

Immediately after this a private consistory is held, when the new cardinals are admonished not to give their vote, or express their opinion, in the consistories or congregations they attend. This erremony is called ollosing their mouths, and is intended to remind them of the producte they should observe in expressing their sentiments on the important subjects submitted to their consideration. The Pope, then, in the same or another consistory, opens their mouths, that is, gives them permission to speak and vote in the conferences and congregations at which they may assist. The promotion to the cardinalite is completed when the Sovereign Pontiff puts a ring on the flager of the new incumbents, and confers their titles, saying to each one: "To the honor of Almighty God, and of the Holy Apostics Peter and Paul and of Saint, the here mentions the name of the titular church to which the cardinal is appointed, we commit to thee the church of this saint, together with its clergy and people and chapels, according to the usual form in this matter." The new cardinals then hiss the foot and knee of the Sovereign Pontiff, and receive from him a paternal embrace. The ring which they wear is of gold, adorned with a sapphire, and hears the cecutcheon of the Pope, who gives it. The sapphire is emblematical of high priesthood and suppleme power, and is therefore appropriately worn by the eminent princes of the Church, who constitute, as it were, one and the same person with the Sovereign Postiff in the exercise of authority. CLOSING THEIR MOUTES, QUALITIES OF CARDINAL M'CLOSHRY. and observing that during the ten years that has presided over the diocese of New York and observing that during the ten years that he has presided over the diocese of New York, he has given a vigorous impulse to all Catholic institutions, he proceeds to consider the astonishing spectacle presented by the Church in the United States. Over the immense tract of country extending from Maine to San Francisco, and from the great lakes to the Guif of Mexico, there were not, perhaps, more than 100,000 Catholics at the beginning of the present century, governed by three or our bishops; now there are seven millions, under the pastoral care of fifty-nine archibishops and bishops and six vicars-spectic, with a corresponding number of priests and churches. It is this wonderful insrease, and the edifying example of the Catholics in the United States, as well as the personal merit of Dr. McCleskey, that have induced the Holy Father to send a red hat across the Atlantic. Such an expansion of the Church on this western countred has naturally led the writer into a train of reflections, joyous in some degree, yet mingled with fear for his own country—the sumy land of Italy; for nothing is more certain in the providential action of God in the direction of

than that a nation which abuses, or does not set to profit, the priceless boon of Christian faith, will sooner or later be deprived of it, and will experience all the dreadful calamities which are its inevitable consequence. We then see verified what our divine Saviour said to the Jews: "The Kingdom of God shall be taken away from you, and shall be given to mother people that will make a better use of it." Such are the vicissitades which the Church has exhibited during her protracted existence. "The East, the privileged land that saw the birth, the death and the resurrection of the Author of our faith—the land of Mary, the Aposites and glorious martyrs and dectors—the East, Falestine, Syria, Asia Minor, Constantinople, the second Rome, renounced Christianity and became a vast theatre of barbarism and infidelity. But God compensated for this loss by bringing into the Church all the nations of Europe, among them the Germans, Slaves and Normans, and these, becoming forgetful of the signal benefits they had received, welcomed the religious rebellion of the state in the century; but, lot while these nations were falling away from the faith, an Italian, with the aid of intrepid coadjutors, discovered Amarica, and carried thither the light which had illumined Northern Europe. Is it possible, saks the writer, that in the mysterious book of the future it is written that some other abandonment will take place? He fears for Italy, judging from the actual state of Europe; but the question that more immediately suggests Itaeli to the Catholics of the Church in this country? We must admit that this portion of the American continent is HUMAN DESTINY THE GARDEN-SPOT OF CATHOLICITY.

We have here a boundless field for cultivat the laborers are continually pouring into i work for the Lerd of the vineyard; they m the laborers are continually pouring into it to work for the Lord of the vineyard; they meet with no serious obtacles, no persecutions, as in other lands—they find everywhere a virginal sell, where the precious seed of truth takes root and springs up with luxuriance; everyyear exhibits a marked horease in the progress of this divine work, and now we behold the ouimination of its prosperity in the very fact that from among us is chosen a prelate, who is elevated to the highest ecolesiasical dignity, and created a member of the Sacred College—thus establishing the Church in the United States on an equality with the more ancient and more renowned portions of Christendom. Shall this prosperity continue? It is for the Catholics of this country to answer the question, and if they wish to answer it affirmatively and with confidence, they must not only maintain themselves individually at the level of their high vocation as members of the true Church, but in their corporate or united capacity it is necessary that they bring into requisition more and more, those two powerful agents of Christian civilisations of religion, that the teachings of Divine revelation, faith and morals, which are the basis of all social order and prosperity, can be preserved practically among true bellevors, that error and prejudide can be removed from the minus of the heteroday, and that these United States can advance happily to that state of perfection which will entitle this portion of the North America to the honorable appellation once awarded to a part of Southern America, "Christendom the blest."

ABOUT THE JESUITS.

Now, some of the most illustrious in this body of men were Jesuits, and also them hold precisely the same religious isith and aim at the accomplishment of the same objects that the Jesuits do; that is, the extension of the Christian religion, the diffusion of useful knowledge, and the salvation of souls. We cannot hear, therefore, without profound astenishment the unterances of a man who pretends to be a Christian minister, placing the Jesuits in the same category with the devil. "I pray," say this apostle of truth and charity, "for the advent of a Bismarck in America, who will have the strength to fight the Pope, the devil and the Jesuits." This beautiful sentiment reminds one of the hypocritical Pharisees of old, who accused our Divine Saviour of casing out devils by Beelzebub, the prince of devils. But he refuted their inheir malicious imputation, by saying that "a kingdem divided against inself cannot stad," and as he labored to overthrow the kingdom of the devil; it was an andactous falsebood and contradiction to attribute to him any disbolical influence. The Jesuits labor for the same object, the overthrow of the dominion of Satan, and therefore the Christian minister alluded to, in praying for a Bismarck to fight against the Jesuits, is un fact only paying his respects and obedience to the opposite party, that is, his satanic majesty. But the sentiment of this minister is not less anti-American than it is filogical. No true American citizen could wish that our civil rulers should constitute themselves religious judges, pass laws violating the conscientious convertions of citizens, and then ery out with hypocritical impudence that they who do not obey these laws are rebellious against the authority of the state. A man who will express such sentiments of citizens, and then ery out with hypocritical impudence that they who do not obey these laws are rebellious against the authority of the state. A man who will express such sentiments of

RELIGIOUS.

Church Services To-morrow. Rev. Dr. Rankin, of the Congregational church is delivering a series of Sunday evening sermons on heaven. The sermon to morrow evening, the fourth in the course, will be on the text: "And there shall be no night there."

REFORMED EPISCOPAL. The regular services of the Reformed Episcopal Church will be held in Lincoln hali to-morrow, morning and night. The Rev. Wm. McGuire will preach in the morning, and at the oligitatery-ice the Rev. A. J. Hartington, of the Baptist church, professor in Columbia University of this city, will occupy the pulpit. The fact that a Haptist minister is to occupy this pulot argues well for the cause of religion, and shows that, even though differing somewhat in the terms of treed, ministers of the different denominations can aid and encourage one another in their good work.

THEACHING BY OSCAR HUGO.

This reverend gentleman, who is an axiled Hugarian for conscience sake, and whose father died in an Austrian prison because he was a prescher of the Gespel and the Grand Master of the Masonic Order, will preach to-morrow morning in Estreet Haptist church, near Sixth street northweat. In the evening in the First Presbyterian church, Four-and-a-half street, near Louisiana avenue northwest. Subject: "The three strongholds of American libertles—an open Bible, our public schools and the sacredness of the Sabbath." Mr. Hugo is well-known to American pulpits for the last twenty years, and comes among us strongly indorsed by thousands of our clergy. In speaking of these sermons, Rev. Dr. Tiffany says: "I thank you for the instructive and interesting sermon." Bishop Peck says: "The herse andience gave evidence of intense satisfaction." Prof. Hodge, of Alleghany Seminary, says: "I was delighted with the eloquent sermon preached by Mr. Hugo in my charch." I'r. Anderson, of the First Baptist church, New Yerk, says: "Mr. Hugo is a loyal American and a forcible preacher." Hugo is a loyal American and a forcible preacher." To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Fulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Fulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea-Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomech and liver.
